

Anti-Rent Trials.
 DELHI, Sept. 25, 1845
Delaware Oyer and Terminer—Hon. A. J. Parker, presiding Judge—J. A. Hughston, Esq., District Attorney—Samuel Sherwood, Esq., of New York, for the People.
 THOMAS, nee MURDER—FOURTH DAY.

The storm extended as far south and east as Utica. At that place the lightning struck a tree on the grounds attached to the residence of the late Gen. Kirkland, tearing down the chimney and blowing away the yard. During the storm, the house of Anna Brown, in Deerfield, was struck, and a dog lying by stove killed. The house, however, and the people, although considerably stunned and knocked in every direction, escaped without injury. A violent gale also prevailed in Deerfield, which blew down trees, chimneys, fences, etc. At New Hartford, where the storm was also very severe, yesterday, that much damage was also done in the town of Whites town. A complete tornado swept a large tract of land, blowing down the village, between Gen. White's late office and the village, and tearing up trees, while the roofs, overturning chimneys, unroofing and canting up buildings. About 10 or 14 feet of water was raised in the village, and the wind carried several rods. Mr. Dart's house lost three chimneys, one of which went through the roof and fell on a barn, and the roof of the house was blown off. The house was greatly injured. Buffalo, N. Y. Sept. 10.

Showing Position of the Family at time of Stroke

Perspective of the North-West or Principal Front

A detailed floor plan of a small, single-story house. The layout includes a kitchen, a sitting room, and a bedroom. The kitchen is located on the right side of the plan, featuring a sink, stove, and various kitchen items. The sitting room is in the center, and the bedroom is on the left. A staircase leads to an upper level. The plan is oriented with a compass rose showing North (N), South (S), East (E), and West (W). A tree is located outside the kitchen area, and a large iron kettle is shown near the entrance.

KITCHEN: Located on the right side of the plan. It contains a sink (A), a stove (B), and various kitchen items (C, D, E, F, G, H, I, J, K, L, M, N, O, P, Q, R, S, T, U, V, W, X, Y, Z). The kitchen is 13 feet wide and 13 feet deep. A tree is located outside the kitchen area, and a large iron kettle is shown near the entrance.

SITTING ROOM: Located in the center of the plan. It is 13 feet wide and 13 feet deep. It contains a large iron kettle (A) and a small table (B).

BED CHAMBER: Located on the left side of the plan. It is 13 feet wide and 13 feet deep. It contains a bed (A) and a small table (B).

STAIRS: Located in the top left corner of the plan. It leads to an upper level.

DOORS: There are four doors in the plan, labeled "DOOR".

COMPASS ROSE: Located in the top right corner of the plan. It shows North (N), South (S), East (E), and West (W).

TREE: Located outside the kitchen area. It is 4 feet from the kitchen.

LARGE IRON KETTLE: Located near the entrance of the house.

a—Chair in which Mrs. Boose was killed, (a small scorched hole directly under chair marked a.) b—Chair in which Mrs. B. was killed.
c—Dining Table.
d—Coffee Mill (p. in end elevation.)
e—Cupboard.
f—Corner where a boy sat.
g—Windows.
h—Oak Studs of about 4 inches square.
i—Splinter caused by the fluid.
k—Plaster broken out, probably by the concussion.
n—Hole made by the electric fluid.
o—Hand-saw.
p—Burnt hole where the fatal shaft entered.
q—Old knives, etc. on ledge.
r—Broken gun-lock on door.
s—Hole in floor, under the lady's chair, caused by the electric fluid.

13 or 14 other persons, when they came up with Backettens and a number of Mormons, at a place called the "Cannon," where they were ordered to leave his party to keep away, but they either did not understand the signal, or disregarded it. On their approach two guns were fired. A ball from one entered Worrell's head, and he fell dead. The other ball entered the cap of the man by his side. As you may suppose, this has added fuel to the flames, and the feeling is now more bitter than ever. The preparing to go out, and nothing is talked of but a general battle, and driving of the Mormons from the county.
The women and children, especially women and children, are leaving the county, and are going to the States. I have found a number with their baggage and household affairs, on the bank of the river. Thus far the Mormons have been treated with great kindness and respect, and peace, but they cannot live much longer in this country, and they are either going to leave, or they must either stand and fight shortly, or leave the county. It burning out the Mormons, and that the same process will be repeated in other parts of the county. I have heard that the same process will be repeated in other part of this county. It is said that they have com-

[From the Wazawa Story, Sept. 27.]

It has become our painful duty to announce the death of one of our noblest spirits by the hands of assassins. FRANKIN A. WORREL, of Carthage, is no more.

While riding across the prairie, in company with some friends, at about half past twelve o'clock, some Normans, who were passing along the same road, suddenly appeared, concealed in the hazel rough, near a small farm place, fired upon him. The ball took effect in his breast and caused almost instant death. There was a wagon in company, which was driven off by the fugitives.

"Poor Frank, he was one of the noblest spirits in our country," said his friends; "and his death has kindled and will kindle a flame that can never be quenched until every Mormon has left the land."

Revenge, Revenge, fellow-citizens, is left to you.

Mr. Worrel was in no way connected with the proceedings of the late war, nor did he ever take up arms. He was only provoked by that [all spirit of revenge that seeks his victims indiscriminately.
He is no longer peace for Hancock. Blood will be must flow—consecrate to rid the country of the cursed authors of our troubles.

We learn from Mr. Reynolds, with whom Mr. Worrel was seen by him, that he was seen by him and fired. They rode towards him slowly, to enquire the news. When about 300 yards off, they saw a man enter the brush and hide himself behind a stump.

When he entered. The place where the murder took

HOUSE BURNED BY MICE.—The residence of Mrs. M. B. Bratton, of Bath county, was destroyed by fire last week, in the following singular manner. The fire was first observed issuing from a drawer in a bureau, and was extinguished by the use of water. When the mice were ignited by mice gnawing at them. The mice in this case were the incendiaries and the matches were their fire. Another cause of the fruits of culpable negligence, in leaving matches laying loosely about.—Lucifer Matches are made by dipping a pine splint in phosphorus and sulphur combined, in a liquid state, and then dipping it in sulphur. The phosphorus and sulphur combined will burn by coming in contact with the air. All the mice had to do was to grind off the phosphorus, and then, especially in warm weather, would ignite.—Charlotte's F. Rep.

A PREJUDICEMENT--The morning train of cars on the Boston and Maine Railroad met with an unexpected obstacle yesterday forenoon in coming in from Dover. A large ship, launched at Medford, was fast jammed in the draw of the bridge, with no prospect of being dislodged. The train was delayed for an hour. There was a predicament. After pondering a short time, the conductor took the back track as far as the junction at Farmington, and then, with water level raised to the top of the bridge, the train was able to proceed. The delay was thirty miles to the distance usually traveled.

The question was put, and Mr. Dean said he had been connected with an anti-rent association; he lived on a leased farm; had once subscribed to a paper for the support of the association; he had attended meetings of Indiana

Parker said he had sent for the jury that he might bring before them the case of a most flagrant outrage committed last evening, of no less a character than that of an attempt to shoot down one of the picket guard. (The Judge then stated the outrage as given above.) This state of things, said Judge Parker, is most lamentable ;

The Grand Jury then retired to their room.

HUDSON, Sept. 25, 1846.

"Big Thunder" not Doctor Boughton, Proven by Three Witnesses—The Prosecution Setting up the Howl of Despair &c. &c.

The story which has found its way into some of the Albany papers, that Warren W. Scudder has been arrested in Steuben county, and is now in the jail of that coun-

OSWEGO AND SYRACUSE RAILROAD.—Releases

York to secure the balance, $150,000, required. So favorable is the route, that it is considered certain that the whole line (36 miles) can be put in operation with a heavy rail, for the capital stock, $350,000.—Oswego Ad